190 Taylors Road, Norfolk Island

Historic Homestead

This historic island home, built in the 1800s is in much of its original condition, with some authentic renovations undertaken over time to retain its original charm and antique feel. If the walls could talk – oh what stories this lovely home would tell. It has been in the family for 72 years and sadly its time to put it in the care of another owner. Called NAUMAI – which means “welcome” – it is beautifully presented.

If you like character, originality, antique furniture and original features, this home has it all. The house has high ceilings, wide floorboards, Norfolk Island style architecture with high pitch roofs and board & batten pieces - perfect for this home. The floor plan is very traditional and practical, with a wide central hallway. A third bedroom, as well as bathroom and kitchen. Wide floorboards can be found throughout much of the home, as well as high ceilings - a beautiful original feature of early Norfolk Island homes.

A separate area downstairs area exists with laundry, and with some renovation a workshop space is also situated underneath the house.

There is also a lock up single car garage at the side of the house.

The land area is 8886m2 or just over two acres which is sloping to the valley.
