137c5 Red Road, Norfolk Island

RARE ACREAGE

This beautiful and large piece of land is tucked away in a rarely available part of the Island, close to Cascade and the National Parks. Characterised by large blocks and few homes up this way, you will have wonderful privacy, and any home built here would be a haven.

The true extent of the views out across the island will only be discovered by some clearing of the non-native vegetation - however there are indications of sweeping views across the main part of the island, as the land is perched at the top of a ridge. With various building sites available along a 200m plus road frontage, you could also look at options to go off-road and off-grid. Dotted with established pines, maples and white Oaks, this is an opportunity to secure a large parcel at an excellent price point.

The property has power connected to it along the road frontage - at nearly 6 acres, it is a beautiful option to be considered.
